A Music Venue for Buffalo, NY!

Where is the best location?

How many venues of our kind already exist?

Is there a market for us here?

These questions and others will be summarized in this data analysis project.

Buffalo, NY segmented by neighborhood

By obtaining data about each music venue and each neighborhood, it was then possible to draw several conclusions, the first being which areas had the least or most venue occurrences and proximity to neighborhoods.

In this case, Upper West Side, Cold Springs, North Buffalo, and Broderick Park have 1 or less venues within their respective neighborhood's land area.

Now these four neighborhoods can be further researched and analyzed themselves using another data set or another data analysis, this time using population data, census data, and more to take the next step in planning.

From this we can spot that Upper West Side, Cold Springs, North Buffalo, and Broderick Park Neighborhoods have the least of our venue type

There are several neighborhoods in Buffalo which fit the description for the ideal place to open a music venue.

They are lacking in music venue locations already, as well as including music venues with lower ratings or limited range of music acts (such as a philharmonic or opera house, club, etc).

Therefore, a music venue which is designed to be multi-purpose, housing touring bands as well as solo singers, djs, and the majority of popular artists, would have a high appeal to those living or near its location.
